In Comfort (2007). Gela Jincharadze (b. 1965). Acrylic on hardboard

Gela Jincharadze has painted from childhood when his native Georgia was under Soviet control; his first public exhibition was staged when he was only 5 years old. Gela's passion for painting and distinctive style stem from his country's lively and constantly evolving tradition of visual art.

Gela chose to study medicine and entered the Tbilisi State University in 1983. However, his studies were curtailed in his third year by a long and severe depressive illness. Continuing to paint in hospital, he gradually returned to health and built a new career as a painter.

Gela now enjoys a strong association with the Gidani psychiatric hospital in Tbilisi where he is a leading member of the very active art therapy programme. His paintings have been exhibited throughout Georgia and Europe.

We are always looking for interesting and visually appealing images for the cover of the Journal and would welcome suggestions or pictures
